

FREE, BUT IN THE GALLOW'S SHADOW.

Dr. Richmond Cornwall, of St. Louis, May Yet Have to Stand Trial for the Killing of His Brother Herbert.

James O'Hara, Upon Whose Testimony in the Preliminary Hearing He Was Set Free, Now Says He Perjured Himself.

St. Louis, Oct. 9.—Free, but walking in the shadow of the gallows, owing to the unearthing of additional and damning evidence, such is the nightmare of a life which Dr. Richmond Cornwall leads from day to day. Facts recently come to light which he laid before the Grand Jury in this case, which started the country, and the brother who slew brother may yet have to stand trial for his life.

When the coroner passed upon the case sentment was all with the doctor. It was reported that he had killed his brother Herbert to save the life of his aged father, whom Herbert was attacking with a hammer.

Herbert was pictured as a monster of cruelty and source of all the trouble which had followed fast and faster upon the Cornwall household. In the preliminary hearing Judge David Murphy dismissed the case and refused to hold the prisoner for the Grand Jury. Since the sensational incidents attending the examination before the coroner and the preliminary hearing, sentiment has changed. The career of Dr. Cornwall was raked over, and it was shown that even if his brother was a criminal he himself was not above reproach. A motive for the crime was sought, and here and there links in a chain of evidence were found which would tend to prove that Herbert held the second place in the family.

Recently a witness, James O'Hara, who testified in favor of the murderer at the preliminary hearing, made a statement that he had perjured himself and that he wished to lay the true facts of the killing of Herbert Cornwall before the Grand Jury.

When the perjury was committed the witness was employed in the Cornwall household. The doctor had been in the city for many years, and the killing occurred. When the coroner changed hands he notified the authorities that he was killing of Herbert Cornwall was done in a wild frenzy, in the heat of anger which Dr. Richmond Cornwall had harbored for many years. First a revolver was emptied without effect, and then with hammer and jug the brother beat out the brains of Herbert, watching the blood by spell-bound, watching the tragedy.

At first it was given out that the struggle in the little back room was one of life and death. The doctor was engaged in the light of a defender of his father, and an unfortunate who, to save his parent's life, was forced to take the life of his brother. As the only witnesses in the case, everything went their way. The scene of the crime was a little room in the rear of the Cornwall home established at No. 1239 North Broadway. There, on the morning of July 7, at 1:30 o'clock, old Dr. John Cornwall entered the store room with his son Herbert. Employed for many years in the Cornwall household, where he lived, and was on his way to make a little visit home. The version of the encounter which followed is drawn from the statements made by Dr. John Cornwall and his son Herbert.

As Told by the Doctor.

Not finding his father in the office, Dr. Richmond proceeded to the laboratory. On entering the room a slight not his gaze which paralyzed him for a brief moment. He stood staring only an instant, then turned and fled to his father's room. At the other end of the room he saw his venerable parent lying on the floor, face upward. His brother Herbert had one hand upon his father's chest, his left hand clutched the throat, while a heavy hammer was uplifted in the right and about to descend upon the old man's head.

"Now, I guess you'll stop your lecturing and presiding, I'll fix your clock this time for good." These words were spoken by Herbert to his helpless parent in a fierce and menacing tone. They had the effect of waking Dr. Richmond from the temporary trance. In another instant the hammer would have fallen. The doctor drew his revolver and shot directly at his brother. The bullet missed, but the noise of the report had the desired effect. Herbert dropped the hammer on the floor, releasing his father, turned upon his brother.

The encounter which followed was to the death. Both seemed to recognize it as such, and went at it with fury and desperation.

MRS. SAGE IN TABLEAU.

The Financier's Wife Will Take Part in Syracuse's Celebration of Its First Fifty Years.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The whole of next week will be given up to a semi-centennial celebration of the organization of the incorporation of the city of Syracuse. There will be historic exercises every evening in the opera houses, and on Tuesday an art parade, in which it is estimated that 20,000 persons will take part.

The celebration opens on Sunday evening with a union mass church service in the Wesleyan Opera House. On Monday there will be a mass meeting under the auspices of the city addressed by Judge Charles Andrews, of the Court of Appeals, and Charles E. Fitch, regent of the University of the State of New York. Besides the parade, the Tuesday there will be tableaux representing incidents in the early history of the town. These will be given every evening through the week. These representations

Carlo Hauling His Legless Master from Buffalo to New York.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 9.—A small cart containing a legless man and drawn by a cheerful looking dog has passed through here bound from Buffalo to New York. The passenger was Max J. Engel, of Buffalo, and the dog is Carlo, whose breeding is a cross between the shepherd and a Newfoundland. They left Buffalo on September 20, and they have jogged along industriously all the way, and neither looks particularly the worse for the journey. They expect to arrive in New York in about a month. Engel, who is a young fellow, lost his legs in a railroad accident in 1890. They were taken off close to the hips, so that locomotion was impossible, and the dog has carried him about ever since. The journey seems to be without any special purpose except that of pleasure.

PRETTY NEGRESS PRACTISES LAW AT MEMPHIS TENN.

Miss Little Is Well Educated, Attractive, and Has Already Made a Reputation for Eloquence and Legal Acumen.

MISS LITTLE A. LITTLE, a bright young negress, of Topeka, Kan., was admitted to the Memphis Bar recently and has already begun to practise. Miss Little is as handsome as she is bright and clever, and great things are expected from her. She is twenty-two years old and a graduate from a law school of Nashville, Tenn., in which State she was born, though her parents removed to Kansas when she was quite a child. Her father, who is a man of means, spared no expense in her education, and she is the first colored woman of the South who has begun regular practice in a court of record. Miss Little is said by her friends to be the most eloquent young woman they have ever known.

CLUB WOMEN TO MAKE A RECORD.

Coming Convention Will Be the Largest Ever Held in This State.

SYRACUSE THE CITY. Programme for the Three Days' Session Next Month Has Already Been Decided Upon.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The largest gathering of women ever held in New York State will meet in this city next month. This will be the third annual meeting of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs and Societies, and it will continue three days, November 10, 11 and 12.

The officers of the Federation this year are: President, Mrs. William A. Montgomery, of Rochester; vice-president, Mrs. William Tod Helmuth, of New York; recording secretary, Miss N. S. Hancock, of Ithaca; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. J. Tanager, of Groton; treasurer, Mrs. Milton H. Northrup, of Syracuse; and Mrs. W. C. # CONVICT ARTISTS OF HIGH DEGREE.

Some of Their Work on Exhibition Shows Skill of the First Order.

PAINTINGS AND STATUES.

One Picture, by R. Sylvester, Is of a Burglary, and Is Highly Realistic.

A very novel exhibition has been given at No. 135 East Fifteenth street the last three days, under the auspices of the State Prison Association. The exhibits are the work of the prisoners confined in the State prisons. Not only are there exhibits from Sing Sing, Auburn and Clinton prisons, but also from the Elmira Reformatory and the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane.

There are some really remarkable specimens of work from Sing Sing. Among these are the drawings by students of the art class. This class was not organized until last February, but the convicts have made wonderful progress.

In the Sing Sing exhibit is also the execution chair which has been in use since 1838. In this chair Carlyle W. Harris and Robert W. Buchanan paid the penalties of their crimes. Visitors have been allowed to sit in the chair and some of them have been strapped in by the attendants just to show them how it feels. The straps are the same as have been bound about the limbs of thirteen murderers.

The best of the drawings are those by R. Sylvester, who has chosen to sign his name to his work. Most of the other convict artists have chosen to keep their identity a secret. Many of them have put only their numbers on their drawings.

In the Sing Sing exhibit are also some fine plaster casts made for the new prison chapel. The moulds for them were made by a young Italian convict, who has shown marvelous skill in his work. Then there are the wood carvings, all done by hand. There is a handsome mahogany desk, made under the direction of John J. McKane, and elaborately carved. McKane is still hard at work bossing a gang of twenty men in the carpenter shop, say the prison officials at the exhibition, which is as much as to say there is little foundation for the stories that he is losing his mind.

"The man under whose direction all this art work has been done at the prison," said Warden Sings, "is a convict who is able to earn $100 to $150 a year at his profession, which is that of an architect. It would be a shame to give him a name, for on his release he intends to go back to his old position, and to begin life over again as an honest man."

One of the women prisoners at Auburn is represented by dresses and bits of millinery. The work of the women prisoners at Auburn is represented by dresses and bits of millinery. Among the books on exhibition is one called "Constitution Criminals Thersana," an original copy of the work published in 1765, by direction of Maria Theresa, Empress of Austria, who intended by it to show to what extent tortures could be lawfully inflicted on prisoners in her Empire. The book is full of pictures showing the tortures which were visited upon convicts in the prisons of that time.

The election of officers takes place on Friday morning. The afternoon session will be opened by Mrs. Ellen Hardin Walworth, of New York, with a parliamentary drill. Mrs. Alice Rich Northrup, of Yonkers, will speak on "Natural Science." Dr. Mary E. Green, president of the National Household Economic Association, is to talk on "Household Economics." Mrs. Louise Benson, of Syracuse, will address the convention on the importance of women having a knowledge of current events, including politics, literature and science; Mrs. Joseph T. Ailing, of Rochester, speaks on the subject, "Practical Aesthetics."

At the last session, Friday evening, the speakers and topics are "Recent Methods of Studying and Writing History," by Mrs. Alice Morris Earle, of Brooklyn; "Patriotism is Treated in the Kindergarten," by Mrs. Mary Stone Gregory, of Ithaca; "The Unity of Hero Worship," by Mrs. Harriet W. H. Green, of Herkimer.

Their Subjects. (Washington Post.) The principles of the country and to hold a convention at St. Louis. We presume the trolley car, the bicycle, the folding bed, the hair trigger shotgun, the banana peel, the Robert rifle, and kindred topics will be thoroughly discussed.

KLONDIKE'S MONTE CRISTO.

Joseph Ladue, Prince of Millionaires, Recommends Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Joseph Ladue, Owner of Dawson City and Klondike Gold Mines, Is the Most Talked of Man in the World To-day. His Advice to Use Dr. Greene's Nervura Will Be Followed By All Who Are Out of Health.

JOSEPH LADUE, DISCOVERER OF THE KLONDIKE GOLD MINES.

Joseph Ladue owns the larger part of Dawson City and Klondike Gold Mines of untold wealth, and is the most noted and talked about person in the world to-day. It was he who discovered the gold of the Klondike region; it was his magic touch which founded and built the city of Dawson; it was his magic genius which developed the greatest mining company of modern times, with such men as Chauncey Depeew, H. Walter Webb, of the N. Y. Central E. R., and ex-postmaster James as directors; it is he whose valuable advice concerning the Klondike region and the relief of the people has been sought by President McKinley and Secretary of War Alger.

Mr. Ladue is the gold mining expert of this century, but from his letter in regard to Dr. Greene's Nervura, which wonderful medicine he places far above all other remedies as the greatest curer of disease and strengthener and invigorator of the people, it is evident that he values good health above and beyond gold or all else.

Mr. Ladue's advice is now sought for more than that of any living man; by fortune makers, and by it, also, good health, brave strength, prodigious nerve vigor and physical vitality can be had by all who adopt his advice and use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is no ordinary patent medicine, but the marvelous discovery of the successful and experienced physician, Dr. Greene, 35 W. 14th st., New York City, who can be consulted free in regard to any and all cases, either when you call or write. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is curing the people, making strong and steady nerves, pure blood and sound and vigorous bodies. Weakness, suffering, nervousness, pain and disease are banished by its wonderful power to cure, and hope and happiness take the place of despondency and despair. Do not fail to use it if you wish to recover your health and strength.
